Maderia, Oct. 11.

The following is the substance of what was said on both sides at the interview between the American Minister and Duke De La Torre:

Mr. Hale, addressing the Duke in the name of the United States, congratulated the provisional Junta and the people of Spain on a success so marked on a revolution of such grand proportions. He was happy to return the greeting which Spain gave the United States on their entrance into a family of free and sovereign people.

The relations between Spain and the United States had always been friendly. Under the present circumstances, all his efforts would be directed to augment the friendship between both people. The Duke De La Torre, in conclusion of his reply, said that amid the ruins of the old rule, a structure would be formed, which he believed would merit the approval and sympathy of the United States. Spain now desired and needed the support of all free nations, and that of the American government was highly esteemed. The Duke concluded by declaring that this interview would serve to maintain unbroken the relations between the two nations, both claiming and exercising successfully the principle of national sovereignty.

packets report that the crop of tobacco in that section of the country will be a fine one, and that the planters guarantee all join in a gladsome flourish of trumpets, but quietly, as it were by stealth. The impression has been general that the season would open much later this year than usual, on account of the reported fact that there is a dearth of fatted hogs in the country. This is denied, however, by many dealers in hogs, some of whom (the dealers, not the hogs), allege that the impression above alluded to has been fostered by interested parties for the purpose of keeping down prices. There is no reason to expect that packing will become general for some weeks to come, but it is certain that two houses, at least, will commence by Monday morning at furthest, they having bought about fifteen hundred hogs to-day at the Union Stock Yards. The quality of the hogs now in market is much better than at the corresponding period last year, and those who are well posted claim that there will be a good crop, at least equal in numbers to that of last year, and probably considerably in excess, though the shipments to date are about 131,000 more than to the corresponding period last year. But prices range much higher than is warranted by the increase in weight, being fully $1.75 per hundred more than in October last. This fact, it is thought, will prevent the buying of hogs in large quantities for packing till the price is reduced, but against this it must be remembered that mess pork ranges now $6.66.50 ingher than twelve months ago, and that stocks ning, taking the up-river freight of the -The Indiana passed Memphis Sur-day night, for this city.

Last night, at 11 o'clock, the steamer Nightingale, from Gincinnati for St. Louis, struck the rocks near the head of the Grand Chain in the Mississippi river. She was immediately headed for the shore, where all her passengers, 200 in number, and 60 horses, were safe y landed. All the pumps on board being started immediately on the occurrence of the accident, she was kept from sinking near an hour, so that nearly all her deck cargo, consisting principally of household goods and belonging to passengers, was saved. Owing to the colness and good management of her officers, there was no excitement among the great crowd of people on board the Nightingale, and by the time the boat reached the landing the women and children were all ready to go ashore. The boat sunk in about one hour, and now lies opposite Thebes, Illinois, with the water 9 feet deep on her starboard, and 7 feet

The Democratic Party in Ken-

Much to be feared is a spirit of apathy during the little left of the Presidential here that our State is certain to go by a wast majority for Seymour and Blair is dence in the integrity and patriotism of prised to learn, what the Times is far from denying, that the vote will be cast. The Jews and the Catholics are neither suicides nor simpletons. Negroes and sol-diers were shipped there by every road and thoroughfare leading into the State. In short, this miserable party, fattened on the life-blood of the republic, was allowed to play and to carry out its old game of corruption, of intrigue, of fraud, of bribery, and of crime, and, as a natural consequence, it acceeded in winning the election. But thank Heaven, it succeeded in doing so by a reduced majority. The radicals at-lovers of law, of order, of liberty, and or ndependence determined not to be overthrown and trampled upon any longer.

Whenever and wherever a radical speaker appeared, a Democratic orator and statesman was found to meet him. When the election meet him, when the election meet him when the statement to vote, they will be dispersed from the polls.

It is time that the people of Kentucky should understand the character of the foe they have to fight against. We have been oppressed beyond endurance.

What reason, we ean, does the Times and its party give thus equipping the blacks South? The reason given is familiar. The whites of the South, the Republicans say, are hostile to the blacks; and, hence the blacks must have the ballot to protec themselves against the whites. The reason, to be sure, is false and insincere; but it is the reason given. Now, if the Constiution must be overthrown and the foundations of society broken up in ten States of the Union for the sake of giving the

They will put them selves out of harm's way. They will not carry religion into politics. Not at all. They will simply drive out of politics the fell counterfeit of religion.

No man of candor and judgment, ther fore, will censure the Jews and the Cathfor voting as classes against Grant and Colfax in this contest. In so voting they will legitimately and wisely exercise their legal right. The vote indeed is called for by the highest consideration of public policy as well as by considera-tions of self-protection to these great classes themselves. Letter from Hon, Robert J. Walker.

WASHINGTON CITY, Oct. 9, 1868. To the Editors of the National Intelligencer:
GENTLEMEN—On the 8th of this month there was published in your paper an extract of a letter from me, in reply to certain inq fries from a friend in Philadelphia as to our finances. Surely it was my duty to answer that letter, and the focts stated by me are undisputed. That out of payments made on account of the war, after it was over; but here there is omitted the vast subsequent sales by the government of war materials, war vessels, captured and abandoned proparty, confiscated cotton, de., first published in the late letter of Mr. Delmar.

But my letter also gives the increase of the interest of the public debt from the 30th of November, 1867, to the 31st of August, 1868, being at the rate of thirty-six millions of dollars a year. Now the increased interest of the public debt from the 30th of April, 1865, to the 31st of August, 1868, we have seen was $46,000,000, teing at the rate of $13,800 000 per annum, whereas the increase for the last nine meanths was at the rate of $36,000 000 a year. To this statement no snawer is or can be given. Thus the rate of annual interest on the public debt has increased over twenty-two millions of dollars a team ($29,260 0000 within the contract of the public debt has increased over twenty-two millions of dollars a team ($29,260 0000 within the contract of the public debt has increased over ($29,260 0000 within the contract of the public debt has increased over ($29,260 0000 within the contract of the public debt has increased over ($29,260 0000 within the contract of the public debt has increased over twenty-two millions of dollars a team ($20,260 0000 within the contract of the public debt has increased over twenty-two millions of dollars a team ($20,260 0000 within the contract of the public debt has increased over twenty-two millions of dollars a team ($20,260 0000 within the contract of the public debt has increased over twenty-two millions of dollars a team ($20,260 0000 within the contract of the public debt has increased over twenty-two millions of dollars a team ($20,260 0000 within the contract of the public debt has increased over twenty-two millions of dollars a team ($20,260 0000 within the contract of the public debt has increased over twenty-two millions of dollars a team ($20,260 0000 within the contract of the public debt has a t statistics of the production of gold and silver and the amount at present supposed to be in use in the world. From 1492 to 1848 it is estimated that From 1492 to 1848 it is estimated that the yield was equal to $8,300,600,000, of which only $2,261,000,000 was in gold and $5,678,000,000 in silver. But the proportion of gold to silver has greatly changed in recent years; so that, from 1854 to 1868, of $574,000,000 of the precious metals, $3,75,000,000 were in gold and only $2,191,-00,000 in silver.

Of the gold produced between 1848 and 1898, America yielded nearly one-half; and the United States and Australia produced nearly four-fifths of the whole.

the Chiled States and Australia produced nearly four-fifths of the whole. It is supposed that Europe and America possessed, in 1818, fix thousand millions of gold and silver; of which nineteen hundred millions were gold, and forty-one bundred millions silver. It is asserted bungred millions silver. It is asserted that, owing to the enormous production of gold since 1848, after making allowance for waste, destruction, use in manufactures, and export to Asia, for all losses, that is to say, the supply of gold in Europe and America is now about two burdred million dollars greater than that of silver. Commissioner Wilson and Mr. Taylor,

Commissioner Wilson and Mr. Taylor, who are quoted in the Banker's Magazine, do not believe that there has been in the last twenty years any appreciable depreciation in the value of gold. In this they differ from many high authorities We have been ttld that at the recent Monetary Congress in Paris, the prevailing opinion of those who had most closer, examined this interesting question was that there had need a sensible depreciation. We have heard that M. Chevulier imagined this depreciation to amount to at least thirty-five par ont; while others named fifteen, twenty and twenty-five per cent as probable. M. Che'whier imagined this deprecation to amount oat least hirty-five per cent.;

while others named fifteen, twenty and twenty-five per cent as probable. In an interesting study of this question, published by M. Chevalier nearly len years ago, that French economist gave his reasons at great length for fearing a general derangement of industry. Irom this cause. He probably overrated the danger, for, as one of the gentlemen a quoted by the Bankers' Magazine remarks, in the present state of interourses, and the extraordinary power of highly civilized societies to adapt themselves to new circumstances, we should probably recover from such a derangement and re-establish values, with not a tenth of the delay or suffering which the first great gold discoveries in the fifteenth century inflicted upon Europe. But the question is worthy of deeper study than it has received; and it would be well if we could ascertain with some degree of certainty what share, if any, the extraordinary yield of gold since 1848, which still threatens to increase, has in the causes which have produced the derangement of industry, the discontent of working, the strikes and combinations of labor, which are, more than wars, revolutions, or changes of dynasty, the marked phenomena of the present time.

shut the door and paid no further attention to him. Not long afterward she locked out again, and seeing him still in the same position, thought that he had set there and gone to sleep, and went to awaken him. She placed her hand on his shoulder before she noticed the chain around his neck, and then she found him to be quite dead. She was unable to raise him from his position, and neighbors adjoining were called and carried him into the huse, but all their efforts to resuscitate him were unavailing.

It appears that Cullen, after resolving to make away with himself, weat to the stable and procured the chain, which is a common log or ox chain, with a large hook at one end. There is a large posinear the stable. One end of the chain had been fastened around this post, a knot about five feet from the ground preventing it from slipping. A sort of slip noose was then formed of the end of the chain which had the hook, and thus was placed around his neck. He could have stood up with the chain around his neck, and even when he knelt he would not have sufficeated. In order to carry out his plan, he was compelled to sit down or partially recline. It is supposed that when he once got into this position he was too drunk to recover himself.

Benvolio. In writing for you an analysis of the frog, I must confess that I have copied the whole thing vervalus ad iberating, from the works or a celebrated French writer ov the 16th century. The frog is the first place a tadpole, and bedy and tall without soming to a head. He travels in pond holes, by the side of the turnpike, and is accellerated by the activity of his tale, which wiggles with uncommon limberness and vivacity. By and by, before long, pretty soon, in a new days, his tale is no more and legs begin to emerge from the south end of the same time, may be seen a disposition to bead cut.

In this cautious way the frog is built, and then for the first time in his life he legins to get his head abov water.

His success is now certain, and soon, in atout five days more, he may be seen and then for the first time in his life he begins to get his head abuy water.

Bis success is now certain, and soon, in atout five days more, he may be seen sitting down on himself by the side ov the pond hole, and looking at the dinner baskets ov the children cum more nearer with a club or a chunck of brick in his hand, to swott him with, he rares upon his hind legs and enters. to swott him with, he rares upon his him legs and enters the water head fust, without opening the door.

Thus the freg does business for a spel uv a time, till he gets tu be 21, and his life iz more ramified. life iz more ramified.

Figgs hav 2 natures, ground and water, and is as free from sin as an oyster.

I never knew a frog tu hurt anybody who paid his honest dues.

I don't recollect now whether a frog has eny before legs or not, and if he don't it sin't nobody's business but the from't nobody's business but the from the from the form't nobody is business but the from the from the form't nobody is business but the form't nobody is business business but the form't nobody is business but the form't nobody is business bus

At the time, Mrs. Legenbiehl was winding up a clock near by. She was very severely burned about the face, neck, and arms; one of her eyes was fearfully burned, and it is thought that the sight is permanently destroyed. No other person was injured, and the damage in other respects was unimportant. No satisfactory explanations as to how the powder was ignited could be obtained.

A Drunken Woman.

A woman who says she is from Brunerstown was before the City Court yesterday morning, charged with drunkenness. She said her name was Mary Turner. The Judge discharged her, because she was the mother of a young infant, which she had with her when arrested. At 2 c'clock yesterday afternoon she was found in a state of helpless intoxication lying on the payement at the corner of Clays and Jefferson streets. Her little child was crawling around her and crying piteously. She was taken to the Clay-street station bouse by Officer Figg and a gentleman who lives in that vicinity, she being entirely too drunk for one man to carry. GRAND FINALE,

The festivities of this truly magnificent

A levelier or more gallant company perhaps never paid their mazy devotions to ded this good luck in selling so favorably, the determined to have a little spree before be returned. At "midnight's holy hour" a superb lunch was set in the main hall, arrangements at the Temple, as well as those observed throughout the gala occasion, were conducted by the following

These gentlemen were complimented on all sides for their faultless taste and general efficiency. The hop was immediately in charge of Messrs. J. B. Rippetto, John B. Cassella, A. Gazzola, and J. B. Gloves. It is said that Laporte & Co., in Paris, are the largest manufacturers of gloves in the world. This firm employs twelve thousand operatives, mostly women, and manufactures over a million pairs of kid gloves annually. The cutting is all per-formed by machinery, and such mathe-matical sources is observed that annualized matical accuracy is observed that every squre inch of the kid is preserved for me portion of the glove. There was an old proverb that, "for a glove to be good and well made, three kingdoms must and well made, three kingdoms must contribute to it—Spain to dress the leather, France to cut it, and England to sew it." But of late years all countries have yielded the palm in all these re-spects to France, and they now have as species to France, and they now have as much the advantage in dressing and sev-ing ss in cutting. The English, who make excellent gloves of he-vy material, them-selves admit their inability to compete with the French in the manufacture of kids, and largely import Parisian gloves for their own use. Ladies and go who are particular about their kid gloves will be pleased to know that Messrs. Green & Green, corner Fourth and Main streets, have these beautiful and elastic gloves direct from the New York agents.

One of the distinguishing objects of the Italian Brotherhood is the perpetuation of the name and fame of their illu ious fellow-countryman and our and the world's benefactor, Christopher Coabus. Indeed this society, we believe was the first to recognize, fully and un-equivocally, the title of Columbus to the distinction of discoverer of the conti-nent, and to honor him by adopting the TUESDAY, OCTOBER 13, 3 A. M. iversary of that proud achievemen as their holiday. The occasion was celebrated by the Brotherhood for the second time yesterday; and no one who watched the proceedings could doubt that there was deep felt sincerity and enthusiastic ardor in the whole affair. Owing to the near approach of the election and other causes, the Cincinnati Brotherhood were unable to attend, but they sent some of their best men as representatives. This reduced the numerical force of the display, but it in OURNAL, per annum, $2, Rates—In Daily Journal nowise detracted from the esprit d'cor or the imposing appearance of the tur members of the Brotherhood, all tidily dressed, and wearing the beautiful pur ple-and-gold regalia of their order, assembled in the large hall of Masonic Temple. The grand procession was in a short time organized by Chief-Mershal J. B. Rippetto, and Assistant Marshals A. Capranezra and V. Botto, With a splendid band of music in front, and one of the Louisville Transfer Company's firest vehicles, filled with ladies and children, in the rear, the process proved through the following route: from the Masonic Temple up Fourth Main, down Main to Ninth, out Ninth Jefferson, up Jefferson to Third, out Third to Green, down Green to Fourth, out Fourth to Walnut, down Walnut to Seventh, out Seventh to Chestnut, down Chestnut to Ninth, out Ninth to Broad-way, up Broadway to Preston, and out Preston to Lion Garden. About twelve o'clock Sunday night two men got into a quarrel on the corner of Werzel and Jefferson streets. They attracted the attention of Policeman Geo. In unity is strength, and if that strength be used for lawful objects, it is always wortby of lawful objects, it is always wortby of our aspirations.

Our italian societies in other places are making efforts, and generally successful ones, to establish schools in which their mother-tongue shall be taught. This is a subject to which I would ask your eernest attention. It would not be difficult to do this, and it would tend much to strengthen and preserve that unity of feeling and action among Italians, which was contemplated in the formation of our own society. It is with heartfeit pleasure that I bid our brothers and countrymen from Cincinnati welcome. I know the feelings of my Italian fellow citizens, and I can safely say that there is not one here that does not feel in his heart a sentiment of gratitude for the courtesy of their presence on this occasion. Italians, nowhere, are wont to bosst of their hospitality, but they are everywhere ready to acknowledge a sincere pleasure when they behold, sitting beside their own family boards, the face of a stranger, especially if that stranger be a countryman.

I thank you, friends and countrymen, to the end of time.

In response to a general call, Mayor Tomprert addressed the Brotherhood for an ball hour or so. His speech abounded in good, practical suggestations of the control o

The procession reformed and marched back to the city, threading again some of tween Fourth and Fifth.

By a careful analysis, as we shall show hereafter with more particularity, the rise of real estate in Louisville has been steady and at times excessive during the ton street.
